

LET'S VOTE ON IT!

It is a fundamental principle of our democratic system that the people reserve the right to challenge laws the government passes (referendum) or propose laws the government won't (initiative).

Four of the last five citizen sponsored measures have stalled against obstacles erected by this city administration.

Now the city has passed an ordinance that further restricts your right of initiative and referendum.

Because these rights are reserved by citizens, they must be discussed and approved by citizens - not secretly by government bureaucrats.

The law requires these changes to be voted by the people. The City knows this and initially intended to put them to a vote but, fearing they would not be approved, decided to ignore this important right of the people.

See how you can protect your first rights!

www.ProtectOurCharter.com

LET'S VOTE ON IT!

It is a fundamental principle of our democratic system that the people reserve the right to challenge laws the government passes (referendum) or propose laws the government won't (initiative).

Four of the last five citizen sponsored measures have stalled against obstacles erected by this city administration.

Now the city has passed an ordinance that further restricts your right of initiative and referendum.

Because these rights are reserved by citizens, they must be discussed and approved by citizens - not secretly by government bureaucrats.

The law requires these changes to be voted by the people. The City knows this and initially intended to put them to a vote but, fearing they would not be approved, decided to ignore this important right of the people.

See how you can protect your first rights!

www.ProtectOurCharter.com

LET'S VOTE ON IT!

It is a fundamental principle of our democratic system that the people reserve the right to challenge laws the government passes (referendum) or propose laws the government won't (initiative).

Four of the last five citizen sponsored measures have stalled against obstacles erected by this city administration.

Now the city has passed an ordinance that further restricts your right of initiative and referendum.

Because these rights are reserved by citizens, they must be discussed and approved by citizens - not secretly by government bureaucrats.

The law requires these changes to be voted by the people. The City knows this and initially intended to put them to a vote but, fearing they would not be approved, decided to ignore this important right of the people.

See how you can protect your first rights!

www.ProtectOurCharter.com

LET'S VOTE ON IT!

It is a fundamental principle of our democratic system that the people reserve the right to challenge laws the government passes (referendum) or propose laws the government won't (initiative).

Four of the last five citizen sponsored measures have stalled against obstacles erected by this city administration.

Now the city has passed an ordinance that further restricts your right of initiative and referendum.

Because these rights are reserved by citizens, they must be discussed and approved by citizens - not secretly by government bureaucrats.

The law requires these changes to be voted by the people. The City knows this and initially intended to put them to a vote but, fearing they would not be approved, decided to ignore this important right of the people.

See how you can protect your first rights!

www.ProtectOurCharter.com

